

6th May 2007

Dear Sirs

Some years ago, possibly 7, I bought a Hill Billy Powered Golf Trolley. It gave me good service, but I basically stopped playing golf in 2004.

I played once in 2005, not at all in 2006.

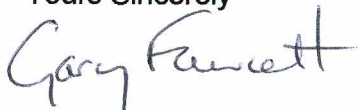

All that time the battery has been on charge in my hallway.

I was asked to play golf 2 days ago, which I did. I was apprehensive about the battery carrying sufficient charge, or being in good enough condition to last the 18 holes.

I'm pleased to report that after only being used once in two and a half to three years, the trolley got its way around the 18 holes without a hitch.

I was pleasantly surprised (although you may not be) and thought you ought to know. There are not many quality products about!

Yours Sincerely

Gary Fawcett
